

EMPLOYEE INVOLVEMENT IN THE COMMUNITY

Community living requires participating in non-school, community, social, and civic activities. Community relations improve when school personnel reside in the district and join neighbors in church, social, fraternal, and civic activities. Person-to-person communications serve to transmit school information and to gather public opinion for future board reference and guidance. Teachers and staff are urged to increase their community contacts.

Regular attendance at service club meetings and other community activities may be permitted provided such attendance does not interfere with the duties of the employee.
